In a Horn

Last Saturday, Henry Jones had a large horn made which was several feet in length, and was painted real. This he took with him to Medisonville to sound atrains of victory, which he anticipated would perch upon the banner of the Victory to him.e. But, oh, alsa this is a world ol "disappointments." The glory di all went 'chter way. The Victories of were defeated and Jones could be true he essayed a few west notes, but they were so, mournful that compared to them a funera, drege would appear as a pluguation jig, and poor Jones actually "came out of the little end of the horn."
